To Whom It May Concern,

I can't say that I know much about the final results of the anti-trust suit, but I can say that I am sickened, saddened, and horrified that one of the largest innovation-crushing, illegal, and underhanded monopolies in the history of the United States is being dismissed with hardly more than a slap on the wrist. The only course with any hope at all is to BREAK MICROSOFT INTO THREE COMPANIES, AS ORIGINALLY PROPOSED. This is indeed a sad time for our democracy.

I only hope that one day, all of those responsible for this travesty will have to support Microsoft operating systems for the rest of their natural lives, without benefit of investment in Microsoft.
